

A Network for Local Action Against Sweatshops

June 23, 2009

Mayor Gavin Newsom
City Hall, Room 200
1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place
San Francisco, CA 94102

Dear Mayor Newsom,

As labor rights advocates and anti-sweatshop activists, we applaud your decision to restore enforcement funding for San Francisco's sweatshop-free procurement ordinance. Independent monitoring of factories is an essential tool for holding vendors accountable and ensuring sweatfree purchases. Now we urge you to take the next step: pool San Francisco's enforcement dollars with the resources of other cities and states and leverage your combined strength to really make a difference for workers.

On September 13, 2005, nearly 60 community groups and concerned citizens and activists nationwide celebrated because the San Francisco Board of Supervisors unanimously approved a landmark sweatfree purchasing ordinance. The ordinance had strong standards and San Francisco had a plan for ensuring that good intentions would become good results.

Central to that plan was independent factory monitoring. But two months later you unveiled another critical element of enforcement, calling for a "consortium of public jurisdictions to...better assure that anti-sweatshop policies achieve their intent." You were the first public leader to realize that for a city to reach its goal of buying only sweatfree products, the city would have to pool information, share resources, and combine its strength with other public entities with the same goal. You urged independent monitoring of supplier factories, coordination of policy enforcement, and consolidated purchasing from sweatfree suppliers.

Cities, states, and labor rights advocates heeded your call for a consortium and have been working to form the Sweatfree Purchasing Consortium to help public jurisdictions act with combined strength and resources to defend workers' rights. Your own staff has been part of the Consortium's interim steering committee since its beginning in May 2007. In October 2007 San Francisco provided a $40,000 grant in support of the Consortium's development.

Board Members

Bama Athreya, International Labor Rights Forum
Rini Chakraborty
Andrew Kang Bartlett, Presbyterian Hunger Program (PCUSA)
Victoria Kovari, Catholics in Alliance for the Common Good
Sarah Leiber Church, Progressive Jewish Alliance

Dick Meyer, South Sound Clean Clothes Campaign (WA)
Rod Palmquist, United Students Against Sweatshops
Eben Viens, Child Labor Education and Action (VT)
Steve Watrous, Milwaukee Clean Clothes Campaign
Jordan Wells, Labor-Religion Coalition of New York
Stephen Wishart, Workers United

Executive Director

National Organizer

Midwest Regional Organizer

30 Blackstone St., Bangor, ME 04401 USA

207-262-7277

bjorn@sweatfree.org

www.sweatfree.org

These are all reasons that San Francisco is and has been a beacon in the anti-sweatshop movement.

Now we urge you to take the step you first advocated. Join the Consortium and work cooperatively with other cities and states to share the cost of monitoring and leverage your influence.

San Francisco is seeking to buy sweatfree uniforms and other apparel from an industry in which serious violations of worker rights are the norm rather than the exception. Tens of millions of workers in the global apparel industry work in sweatshops with poverty wages, forced overtime, and dangerous working conditions. Most workers do not know their rights. Those workers who try to organize unions to improve working conditions are usually unsuccessful, finding that employers violate laws protecting their associational and collective bargaining rights with impunity.

In this deplorable state of labor compliance, cities can only purchase sweatfree by using their procurement power to leverage better working conditions. No city can do that on its own, no matter how strong its ordinance and how dedicated its staff. Only the combined strength of many cities and states will make the difference.

San Francisco has been a source of hope to workers who toil in sweatshops making uniforms and other apparel for U.S. public agencies. Now we can best nurture that hope by reaching out to one another and working together to end purchasing from sweatshops.

We look forward to hearing more good news from San Francisco soon.

Sincerely,

Bama Athreya, Executive Director
International Labor Rights Forum

Diana Bohn
Campaign for Labor Rights Task Force

Bjorn Claeson, Executive Director
SweatFree Communities

Stephen Coats, Executive Director
US Labor Education in the Americas Project

Kirsten Moller, Executive Director
Global Exchange

Katie Quan, Associate Chair*
UC Berkeley Center for Labor Research and Education

Ruth Rosenbaum, TC, PhD, Executive Director
CREA: Center for Reflection, Education and Action

Robert J.S. Ross, PhD, Professor of Sociology*
Director, International Studies Stream
Clark University

Elizabeth Swager, Coordinator
Sweatfree Northwest

Cristina Vazquez, Manager
Western States Regional Joint Board, Workers
United

Cynthia Waide
Texas Fair Trade Coalition & Austin Tan Cerca
de la Frontera

Jordan Wells, Sweatfree Coordinator
Labor-Religion Coalition of New York State

Ryan Zinn, National Campaign Coordinator
Organic Consumers Association

*signed in individual capacity only

cc: Members of Board of Supervisors:

David Chiu, President, District 3

John Avalos, Supervisor, District 11

David Campos, Supervisor, District 9

Carmen Chu, Supervisor, District 4

Chris Daly, Supervisor, District 6

Bevan Dufty, Supervisor, District 8

Sean Elsbernd, Supervisor, District 7

Eric Mar, Supervisor, District 1

Sophie Maxwell, Supervisor, District 10

Ross Mirkarimi, Supervisor, District 5

Michaela Alioto-Pier, Supervisor, District 2

Nancy Kirschner Rodriguez, Director of Government Affairs

Wade Crowfoot, Director of Climate Protection Initiatives

Naomi Kelly, Director, Office of Contracts Administration

Donna Levitt, Manager, Office of Labor Standards Enforcement

Carmen Herrera, Contract Compliance Officer

Galen Leung, Manager, Central Buying Division

Alicia Culver, Chair, Sweatfree Procurement Advisory Group