

Invitation to Sponsor

We invite your sponsorship of SweatFree Communities' National SweatFree Summit, which will be held in Washington, D.C., November 6-8, 2009.

During our past annual conferences, we have educated hundreds of community activists, union members, students, religious leaders, and others. This year, we will convene anti-sweatshop activists from across the country for trainings and workshops at our 6th annual gathering.

Your support will help us provide travel scholarships to enable low-income volunteer campaign leaders to attend the National SweatFree Summit.

The deadline for sponsorship is Monday, October 19, 2009.

Sponsorship Criteria

We invite sponsorship from any organization or individual who supports our mission: Ending sweatshop exploitation by inspiring responsible local purchasing and fostering solidarity between U.S. communities and workers worldwide. In the past, our sponsors have included labor unions, businesses, university departments, student groups, non-governmental organizations, and faith-based institutions.

We welcome sponsorships from businesses that are locally owned and controlled, worker-owned and operated, or where workers' interests are ensured through a collective bargaining agreement. We also welcome business sponsors that sell products that are locally made, organic, fairly traded, sweatshop-free, and made by workers who are organized into democratic unions or worker-owned cooperatives that give them an effective, collective voice in determining their wages and working conditions.

How to sponsor:

- 1) Choose your sponsor level
- 2) Send in the form and make your payment
- 3) Send a black & white ad (preferably 300dpi JPG or GIF) to summit@sweatfree.org by Monday, October 19, 2009

What you get:

- 2) Publicity among the nation's top anti-sweatshop organizations, representing diverse coalitions and thousands of conscientious consumers
- 3) A significant role in the movement to end sweatshop labor and improve working conditions at home and abroad
